GENERAL COMMENTS	Congratulations to the authors on this exploration of work experiences of people living with oligodendroglioma. Some minor points for consideration: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Arguably, as described, this is a qualitative descriptive study design rather than cross-sectional 2. Figure 1 attempts to show how themes and sub-themes are related, however my concern is that the figure may inadvertently be misinterpreted. For example it is hard to imagine financial implications not being affected by work ability/productivity, and as the figure is drawn one might expect to see a line connecting the two. I appreciate that the model in figure 2 is for this purpose, but for this reason, figure 1, may be better presented as a table, rather than a quasi-model looking figure. 3. It seems appropriate to incorporate into the discussion a comment on the extensive literature about financial burden in cancer and the contribution of RTW.
